Class of works: I am writing in support of Class #3 (Unskippable DVD Advertising): Audiovisual works released on DVD that contain access control measures that interfere with the ability to control private performance, including the ability to skip promotional materials.

Summary:

Disc name: Shawshank Redemption

This is just one of many DVDs which I have bought. I like the idea of the movie being presented in higher quality format, but I have been plagued by the unstoppable previews before the movie. At least with VHS I was able to fast forward, but since the DVD became popular I have not been able to skip any previews, and it has gotten on my nerves.
